

BELL INVENTS A KITE, NOT A FLYING MACHINE

Perfects Aeroplane Device
That Will Lift a Man.

HE WILL NOT EXPLAIN NOW

May Make Public Details of Construction at Some Future Time—Announcements Premature.

Mr. Bell has been interested for years in the aeroplane experiments of Prof. S. P. Langley, of the Smithsonian Institution. These experiments have been made near Washington, principally from a boat in the Potomac River.

Mr. Bell has given out the following statement regarding his experiments: "The newspapers have been premature in announcing that I have been at work upon a flying machine. I haven't any flying machine at all—and have not been trying to make one."

"I am, of course, interested in the problem and have come to the conclusion that a properly constructed flying machine should be capable of being flown as a kite, if anchored to the ground, and that, conversely, a properly constructed kite should be capable of use as a flying machine if provided with suitable means of propulsion."

"My experiments have had as their object the building of a kite of solid construction capable of carrying up in moderate breeze weight equivalent to that of a man and engine, and so formed that it would be suitable for use as the body of a flying machine—and with supporting surfaces so arranged that when the kite is cut loose it will come down gently and steadily and land undamaged."

"I have successfully accomplished this, but do not care at the present time to make public the details of construction."

A Student of Aeronautics.

Mr. Bell has long studied the problems of aeronautics, and this summer instituted a series of kite-flying experiments at his summer home on Cape Breton Island.

These experiments began early in June and lasted until nearly the first of December.

"I shall say nothing further about them at this time that is not embodied in my statement," Mr. Bell said last night. "I shall not say what I have or have not done, or what flying machine experiments have taken, or anything of that kind. At some future time, just when I cannot even intimate, I shall make public such other features of the experiments as the results justify."

Prof. Bell refrained to discuss his experiments as compared with the Langley experiments. It is believed he will study the problem at his home in this city this winter from the theoretical point of view and not make further experiments until the spring.

Mr. Eddy's Views.

In a recent article William A. Eddy, the kite-flyer, said:

"Octave Chanute, of Chicago, who recently compiled a classified list of flying-machine experiments in the past 600 years, declares that to Prof. S. P. Langley, of Washington, belongs the credit of making the greatest advance in aerial navigation. Prof. Langley, several years ago, built a model flying-machine that made a circuit of three-quarters of a mile at an elevation of 600 feet above the Potomac River."

"The aeroplane, as it was called, introduced a new principle in aeronautics, a principle which it is firmly believed is the only one yet discovered that will make navigation of the air a practical possibility."

"Prof. Alexander Graham Bell, who was associated with Prof. Langley in some of his experiments, has been engaged the past summer in perfecting a flying-machine on the aeroplane principle."

CLYDE FITCH'S SUPERB CONNECTICUT HOUSE

Author-Playwright Sends Costly Curses for Decorating New Home.

GREENWICH, Conn., Dec. 27.—Clyde Fitch, the playwright, has sent curious valued at $50,000 to his new house now being built a mile north of the Fairfield County Golf Club, having secured them in Italy last summer.

Mr. Fitch's new house is of Queen Anne style, roomy, cost about $25,000, and rests on a hillside whence there is an unobstructed view of Long Island Sound. Ernest Thompson Seton is a neighbor. The curious consist of carved marble, casts made in flint-like plaster, and worm-eaten wood carved with a skill which is not seen nowadays. Some of the pieces are said to be more than two centuries old. One of the curios is a coat-of-arms in marble, which will be set in the broad chimney on the exterior of the house. A rare painting will fill the center of the ceiling of the entrance hall, and on both sides of the fireplace will be placed, in niches, two wonderful carvings in wood of cherubs, fruits, and flowers about ten feet in height.

On the east of the house is a terrace which will be inclosed with an antique iron rail and gate. The posts of the gateway will be of marble. Mr. Fitch will have a private water reservoir and electric-light plant, and is building an automobile house.

PITTSBURG PHIL'S TIP RUINED BOOKMAKERS

Sent It to Friends as Christmas Gift.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 27.—Through a tip wired to friends by George E. Smith ("Pittsburgh Phil"), Pittsburgh followers of the racing game on Wednesday cleared up not less than $50,000, breaking every vest-pocket bookmaker in Pittsburgh and the poolroom at McKee's Rocks, a suburb of Pittsburgh.

The tip was given on Athlete, that Smith said would win the second race at New Orleans. He sent the wire to several Pittsburgh friends, saying it was his Christmas gift. The word was passed around and about 100 local sports who had about made up their minds to play Shrine, ridden by the famous Redfern, bolted for Athlete.

The local vest-pocket bookmakers were taken unawares and took all the money they could get, giving odds of 5 to 1, though the price at New Orleans was 10 to 1. The poolroom was literally flooded with Athlete coin, and it was fully an hour before the race was put on that the local bookmakers decided they had enough at stake on Kelly's horse. It meant win and the result would mean ruin.

The news that Athlete had taken the money sounded the death knell of several small bookmakers who had gone their limit on what they considered a good thing. Not a few of the local bookies had to borrow heavily to pay out. A nineteen-year-old college boy at home with his parents in Bradock put his holiday allowance on Smith's tip and came to town and cashed in $1,050.

New York sporting men won more than $50,000 on the victory of Athlete. Hunt John Kelly, representing Tim Sullivan and Emile Herz, took about $25,000 out of the local ring and poolrooms. It was one of the best-planned coups of the meeting, and Hayman and McKee, betting commissioners, who played the money, got most of it on at 10 to 1. It was said at the track that Dave Gideon and his friends in New York were the heavy winners by Athlete's victory.

ALL-SOUTHERN COLLEGE ELEVENS WOULD BE STRONG

RAILWAY RELIEF BOWLERS RESUME THEIR SCHEDULE

The Washington Railway Relief Association Amateur Bowling League resumed its schedule last night on the association's alleys in a game between the clerks and the track and roadway quint. The bowling of the latter team was bad, only one of the games exceeding the 700 mark.

Whitney, of the clerks, was high man, with 194 average, and his 200 and 191 were best and next best singles. He bowled in a class by himself. Elliott, of the same team, was second high man, with 152 average, and his 185 single was next best to Whitney's.

GARDNER-CARTER BOUT MAY NOT TAKE PLACE

State Authorities Take a Hand in Boxing Game in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—For the first time in a number of years the authorities of Illinois have taken steps which may put an end to prizefighting in Chicago.

Fighting has flourished for years by permission of the city authorities until some scandal disgusted the public and put the sport in such bad odor it was stopped. But it remained for acting Governor Northcott to officially call the attention of Sheriff Barrett to the fight to take place at the Lyceum Athletic Club between Kid Carter and George Gardner next Monday night.

The sheriff received a letter from Springfield warning him that he must not permit any violation of the law. Mr. Barrett immediately wired the acting governor that he would see that the law would not be violated.

"I will not stop the Lyceum Athletic Club's contests unless they become brutal," said Sheriff Barrett. "The men who are billed to take part in the bouts are, I am given to understand, well trained and in perfect health, and such being the case, they ought to go through a bout limited to six rounds without sustaining any serious injury."

"I called up the club's officials and told them I would be at the ringside and note carefully everything that transpired and would stop any contest which I think is too brutal."

"The Lyceum Club is a chartered organization, and has a permit to hold boxing contests, and I so notified the governor. I do not believe it was the intention to single out one club for action, but if I receive orders to close down boxing altogether, I shall be compelled to do so, of course."

SHY WIDOW DAVIS DODGED CUPID ONCE

Poughkeepsie Widow, After a Year, Is Led to Altar by Another Man.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Dec. 27.—A year ago Christmas Day two couples went to Justice Dwight to get married. It was to have been a double wedding, but after Benjamin Franklin Traver and his bride had been made one a hitch occurred in the program. Mrs. Rosa Davis, a buxom young widow of twenty-seven, who was the other prospective bride, concluding to think it over a few days longer.

The name of the flitted swain is not made public, but Justice Dwight says he was the most embarrassed man ever seen as he retreated from the office.

On Christmas Day just past, Justice Dwight was in his office when the door opened and in walked the Widow Davis escorted by Dewitt Davis, a farmer of Washington Hollow, who is a cousin to her dead husband. He looked nervously from the bride to the justice. Just behind them were Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Traver, the bride and bridegroom of a year ago.

"Well, this is a surprise," exclaimed the justice. "Is it a sure go this time?"

"Yes, indeed. I've got the right man now," answered the Widow Davis, bubbling over with joy. "and here are Mr. and Mrs. Traver come to be my witnesses."

So the justice tied the knot and blessed the bride, and that night there was a wedding feast and an anniversary at the home of the Davises, in this city.

BUG SPECIALISTS DISCUSS MYSTERIES

Several Papers Read at Entomologists' Session.

"The Eccentricities and Mysteries of Insects" was the question under discussion at this morning's session of the Association of Economic Entomologists, which is in convention at the Columbian University. Several papers on this subject were read, and subsequently discussed by the delegates.

The papers read were "Can the Pest Weevil be Exterminated?" and "Injurious Insects of the Year in Canada" by James Fletcher, of Ottawa, Canada.

"Economic Entomology in Japan, with Notes on Some of the Principal Insect Pests," by C. L. Marlatt, of Washington, and "Observations of the Life History of the Codling Moth," by C. B. Simpson, also of this city.

Mr. Simpson's address dealt with a description of the work of the special detail sent out by the Government to exterminate the codling moth, or apple worm. He said that he had spent three seasons in the Pacific northwest studying the life history of the insect, and from his investigations had found that it differed from those in the East because of the increase in number of generations. He said that there were a number of variations to make the moth more harmful than insects of a similar family in this part of the country.

Mr. Simpson exhibited a spraying machine, which had been used by the detail to kill the insects. He said that they had succeeded in saving ninety per cent of the apples, and added that it was practically impossible to exterminate the moth.

This afternoon's session was devoted to the reading of the committee reports and other routine business. Reports were made by the committee on qualification for membership, the auditing committee, the nominating committee, and the resolutions committee. Several addresses were made, and the convention was brought to a close.

LIEUT. BROWN CLAIMS HIS PAY AND MILEAGE

Dismissed From Army for Playing "Craps."

Lewis E. Brown, formerly a lieutenant of Company I, Ninth United States Volunteers, who served in the Santiago campaign in the Spanish-American war, has filed suit in the Court of Claims to recover over $5,000 alleged to be due him by the Government as salary.

Lieutenant Brown was discharged from the military service by order of court-martial, after having been found guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman. The specific charge against him was that on a certain rainy night while the United States troops were at Santiago he was discovered playing "craps" with some enlisted men of his command.

He was tried by court-martial and adjudged not guilty of the offense. The papers in the case were then sent on to the War Department for approval and were returned unapproved with the recommendation that the charge against Lieutenant Brown be further investigated. The court-martial was reconvened, and recommended the dismissal of Lieutenant Brown from the service.

On his arrival in Washington, Lieutenant Brown, through his counsel, Lorenzo A. Bailey, filed a petition asking that a writ of mandamus be issued by the Supreme Court of the District to compel the Secretary of War to reinstate him in his official position as a soldier in the army. The matter was argued before Justice Claiborne, who denied the application for the writ. An appeal was then taken to the Court of Appeals for the District, where the judgment of the lower court was affirmed.

Lieutenant Brown claims pay and mileage since February 17, 1899, when he was dismissed from the service.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by Henry Evans, wholesale, and all druggists.

The diver dies without air to breathe. The consumptive dies without lungs to breathe the air, or of lungs rendered incapable of breathing by disease. The blood as it flows in and out of the lungs indicates the consumptive's progress. As the lungs grow weaker less oxygen is inhaled and the blood changes from scarlet to purple. Oxygen is the life of the blood as the blood is the life of the body.

The effect of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery upon weak lungs is to strengthen them, to enable the full oxygenation of the blood, arrest the progress of disease, and heal the inflamed tissues. Lung diseases have been and are being cured by "Golden Medical Discovery," in cases where deep-seated cough, frequent hemorrhage, emaciation, weakness, and night-sweats have all pointed to a fatal termination by consumption.

"Some years ago I was almost a helpless victim of that dread disease—consumption," writes Mr. Chas. F. P. M., of Stika, White Co., Ind. "I was confined to my room for several months, my friends and neighbors had given up all hope of my recovery, until one day a friend advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and after I had taken the contents of the second bottle I began to improve. After taking six bottles I was, I honestly believe, delivered from the grave and entirely cured. I am now strong and hearty man."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the clogged system from accumulated impurities.
